

CRCS
Center for Regional
Climate Studies

Northern Plains Weather/Climate Product, Service, and User Engagement Workshop

Thursday, March 28, 2019

8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

NDSU Memorial Union, Prairie Rose Room

Sponsored by the Center for Regional Climate Studies and support from:

Funding provided through:
National Science Foundation
EPSCoR RII Track-1 Award
Award # OIA-1355466

This workshop will bring together regional partners that disseminate weather and climate information, researchers from the fields of agriculture, hydrology, and atmospheric science, and end users that depend on weather/climate data. Workshop activities will include a mix of educational talks, interaction with researchers discussing current work, and discussions to understand needs and future wants of end users.

Presenters will include individuals from the following groups:

- Center for Regional Climate Studies
- Grand Forks National Weather Service Office
- High Plains Regional Climate Center
- North Dakota Atmospheric Resource Board
- North Dakota State Climate Office
- USDA Northern Plains Climate Hub

Registration for the workshop is free, but must be completed by March 25, 2019. Attendance is limited to 50.

Register at: <https://apps.ndus.edu/northern-plains-climate-workshop>